Dr. Reedy has conducted ethnographic research in the Alaskan communities of King Cove, Sand Point, Nelson Lagoon, and Port Heiden on the Alaska Peninsula; False Pass, Akutan, Unalaska, Nikolski, Atka, and Adak in the Aleutian Islands; Bethel and Nome in Western Alaska; and in Cordova in Prince William Sound. Her primary research is investigating the role of traditional commercial and subsistence economies in the construction and maintenance of Aleut identity. Research interests include indigenous rights and traditional representations of identity, social anthropology of northern peoples, Aleut culture and history, ecological anthropology, ethnohistory, economic anthropology subsistence and commercial fisheries, local knowledge of food harvesting and ecology in Alaska Native villages, oil and gas development near coastal communities, environmental and fisheries policymaking, and policy analysis.

PROFESSIONAL APPOINTMENTS

- 2011-present Associate Professor, Department of Anthropology, Idaho State University.
2007-2011 Assistant Professor, Department of Anthropology, Idaho State University.
2010-present Assistant Professor, Department of History, Idaho State University.
2000-2007 Affiliate Research Assistant Professor, Department of Anthropology, Idaho State University.

EDUCATION

- 1999-2004 Ph.D., Department of Social Anthropology, University of Cambridge, UK.
Dissertation title: Aleut Identity and Indigenous Commercial Fisheries.
Ph.D. Advisor: Barbara Bodenhorn, Pembroke College
1993-1997 B.A., Department of Anthropology, University of Wisconsin, Madison.
